My husband and I started a collection of Little Golden Books years ago based on all of the Disney animated movies for our oldest grandson, and "Planes Fire & Rescue" was one of our additions this past Christmas (though this time it was purchased for our middle grandson, who's going on 3 years old and has been enjoying all of the well-worn, well-loved books from Big Brother!) I've babysat my grandsons since birth (there's a third now, waiting in the wings), and have really come to appreciate the knack these books have of doing such a nice job of condensing full length movies down into 24 easy-to-read pages (perfect for a lunchtime or naptime read), easily capturing a youngster's imagination with their colorful illustrations. Obviously, this is a very condensed version of the movie plot, but I think pretty well hits on the main points surrounding the tale of main character Dusty Crophopper's firefighting adventures at Piston Peak National Park. Several of the characters other than Dusty are mentioned by name (Mayday, Chug, Skipper, Lil' Dipper, Windlifter, The Smokejumpers, Blade Ranger, Maru, Winnie & Harvey), and the illustrations feature many of the other characters as well. As in the original movie (and book), Dusty becomes the hero again, but not without the help of his friends (giving a simple to comprehend message about teamwork to impressionable little ones.) His older brother took to reading early, and this grandson seems to be following in his steps (possibly with just a bit of help from Grandma!), and the simplicity of these books make them great as teaching tools. Possibly coupled with one of the cute diecast figures available (which you can typically find for @ $6), this would be a perfect gift (at a budget-conscious price) the next time your youngster is invited to a birthday party!

My granddaughters are big Pixar and airplane fans so this book was perfect. I am a believer in finding books about children's interests and giving them the opportunity by letting them read it or if they are too young, read it to them and spark that interest in reading. I am a fan of Golden books and this is a good one.

Great little book for my little man who loves planes! I know it will be even better when he can start to read it himself!

Really cute book, with a good story. Unlike the movies, these books for the younger audience limit the sometimes scary parts that prohibit us from watching the movies. My son LOVES planes and cars, so he has been really excited to read this book over and over...

We got this book for our son prior to seeing the new movie. Great pictures! Our son can spend hours just flipping through the pages looking at the pictures. And he loves having his big brother read it to him. A great book for any Planes fan.

Kids like the retelling of the Fire and Rescue movie.

My 4 year old is very happy with this. He loves Cars and Planes and loves little golden books in general.

My Planes-obsessed toddler was so excited to receive this book. It has wonderful graphics and is a great book to hold over your little ones until the new movie is released. I'm sure it will be just as fun once the movie has hit theaters!
