Ellinger's Modern Banking Law
Ellinger's Modern Banking Law sets banking law against the background of general legal doctrines and banking regulation, discussing its operation in the context of its wider economic function. The book examines the different types of banks and banking organizations operating in the United Kingdom, also making use of American, Canadian, New Zealand and Australian examples. It provides analysis of the banker and customer relationship, explaining the different types of accounts available, the duties and the liabilities of banks, and the latest processes used in the clearance of checks, plastic money and electronic money transfers. Issues relating to overdrafts, bank loans, credit agreements, and securities for bankers' advances are covered. This is a significant book for undergraduates and postgraduates alike, as well as practitioners, providing comprehensive and up-to-date coverage. Online Resource Center Weblinks and twice-yearly updates will be available on an Online Resource Center accompanying the book.

Customer Reviews

"This is an impressive text. It is a credit to the three distinguished co-authors involved and a 'must have' for all lawyers, bankers, and students or any other interested parties in this area." G.A. Walker, Centre for Commercial Law Studies, London, Journal of International Banking Law and Regulation --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Peter Ellinger is a Professor Emeritus of the National University of Singapore. Previously, he held chairs of law at the Victoria University of Wellington (NZ) and at Monash University, Melbourne, Australia. Professor Ellinger has specialized in commercial law with particular emphasis on banking law and has published a number of books on the subject as well as chapters in Benjamin’s Sale of Goods, Chitty on Contracts and the recently published chapter on Negotiable Instruments in Vo. IX of the Encyclopedia of Comparative Law. Eva Lomnicka is Professor of Law at King’s College London and a practicing barrister at Four New Square Chambers. She is co-editor of Sweet and Maxwell’s Encyclopedia of Consumer Credit and Encyclopedia of Financial Services Law and advises on regulatory issues arising under credit and hire agreements. She was on the DTI’s Consumer Credit Steering Group which led to the Consumer Credit Act 2006 and was an expert on the UK’s delegation to UNCITRAL’s Convention on Receivables Financing (Vienna and New York: 1997-2001).Christopher Hare is a senior lecturer in law at the University of Auckland, teaching and researching in the areas of contract, commercial, and banking law, and international sales and finance. Prior to his departure for New Zealand he practiced as a barrister at 3 Verulam Buildings, Gray’s Inn and was a fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge. He is currently editor of the New Zealand Law Review and is the New Zealand correspondent for the Banking and Financial Law Review.

If it had been more thorough I would have given it 5 stars. Nonetheless, it is a very useful reference.
