"With every frame we see the breadth of nature in a single shot... A tour-de-force." -- William Allen, Editor, National Geographic magazine

Award-winning nature photographer Jim Brandenburg gave himself a challenge: for ninety days between the autumnal equinox and the winter solstice, he would take only one photograph each day. This exquisite book is the result of that bold and immensely personal project. Through the accompanying essay Brandenburg shares his innermost thoughts and passions as he witnesses the cycle of nature near his home in the northwoods of Minnesota. Highlights include: * Author of award-winning Brother Wolf and White Wolf. * Book designer Rita Marshall is an acclaimed talent in the field. . * Brandenburg is one of the few photographers to win National Press Photographer's Association "Magazine Photographer of the Year" twice. . * Evocative and emotional, journal-style text essay. . * Book was highlighted by National Geographic-the largest number of photographs ever included in one of their articles.

While viewing this film, I found myself entranced, often moved to tears, by the sheer beauty of the natural scenes and the photographs of them. This is a film one could never get tired of no matter how many times one watches it. Mr. Brandenburg and his wife/helper condensed their daily experience of the north woods of Minnesota into the taking of just one photograph a day, sometimes not settling on a selection until sundown was almost complete. Now that I've seen this video I am impelled to do three things: (1) take a trip to the wilderness areas of Minnesota; (2) send the DVD to a friend who herself is a photographer in the East; and (3) run, not walk, to the proper screen to order up quick the accompanying book so I may have a permanent record of these beautiful woods in the photographs, great in their simplicity, of Mr. Brandenburg.

I love this book!!! I first saw this back when it first came out in 1998... finally.. way down the road i thought of it again and was very happy to find that sold it....the photography, the words, everything is very well done. This book is great as a gift, coffee table book, or one to look at whenever you want a peaceful emotional escape:))))

This is another book that I bought for my mom that has some excellent photography pictures in it. The pictures were taken one a day for 90 days in all types of weather and of various landscape and wildlife and sky scenes. I am blind, but my mom loved this book. I highly recommend it.

Beautiful images with a very interesting story. Highly recommend if you love the beauty in nature and see it from a photographers perspective.

My friend introduced me to this book. I am so inspired that I bought a copy to keep for myself. I am a novice landscape / nature photographer, but I photograph people professionally. There is a lot of pictures shown: big and beautiful. The writing is good, and helps to understand the pictures better. I love that fact that author / photographer only took one picture per day!

If you're a photograph nut like my wife, you'll love Jim Brandenburg's magic with his camera, shot in Minnesota. An outdoorsman, Brandenburg goes on a one month wilderness trek, where he will shoot only one picture a day. The photos are amazing.

Watch this video and you will be calmed,soothed and inspired. A peaceful almost religious experience. Buy the book also, it is absolutely beautiful. Jim Brandenburg is an outstanding photographer and human being. Buy a copy for yourself and after viewing, you'll soon want to buy one for the most precious people in your life. If you care for the natural world and the preservation of this planet, you owe it to yourself to view this video. Thank you Jim Brandenburg.
