Calgary's Stampede is a 10-day world-class family festival. It starts with a lively parade and ends with an especially intense competition of bull and bronc riding aimed at a million dollars in prize money. Famed also for its Chuckwagon Races, it is known for its free daily pancake breakfasts, native Indian Village, and innumerable Midway rides. It includes international contests with miniature horses, dog herding, horseshoeing, and team cattle herding. Your kids will learn where milk and wool really come from. The Super Dogs, and famed country singers like Taylor Swift and Reba McEntyre, have delighted Stampede crowds.
